

FACTS:

More than 2600 courses are offered. We train more people than any educational institution in Contra Costa County -- offering more than 57 occupational specialties. The DVC faculty is composed of 300 full-time and 370 part-time instructors. Most hold advanced degrees. They bring academic and technical expertise to the classroom to an unusually high degree for lower division instruction.

At 54%, students at the freshman level represent the largest single component of the student body.

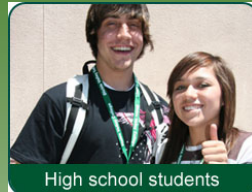

Part-time students account for about two-thirds of the enrollment, but the number of full-time students is increasing. Women make up 54% of the student population.

The largest group on campus is 20-24 years. It's followed closely by the 30-49 year age group.

The number of students attending for successive terms increases steadily.

Future Students

High school students

DVC is a great place to start your college career out of high school! We are one of the top "transfer institutions" in California, serving as a stepping stone for students whose ultimate destination is the University of California, or California State.

International students

DVC offers educational opportunities for international students, who otherwise may not have such opportunities available to them in their home countries.

Adult students

DVC offers exceptional educational opportunities to adult students. If you plan to pursue your degree or transfer goals, expand or update your job skills, or enjoy personal growth and enrichment, DVC has the right program for you!

DIABLO VALLEY COLLEGE

Diablo Valley College is one of three publicly supported two-year community colleges in the Contra Costa Community College District. The main campus is located off Interstate 680 in Pleasant Hill, California and twenty miles east of UC Berkeley. A new San Ramon Valley Campus in Dougherty Valley opened its doors to students in November of 2006.
